

REPORT ON SDG 17: PARTNERSHIP FOR THE GOALS

Azerbaijan University plays a crucial role in advancing the Partnership for the Goals by integrating sustainable development principles into its education, research, and community outreach efforts. Through international collaborations, interdisciplinary programs, and research focused on issues like climate change and social equality, the university contributes to global sustainability goals.

17 PARTNERSHIPS FOR THE GOALS

Partnership for the Goals (SDG 17)

Azerbaijan University plays a crucial role in advancing the Partnership for the Goals (SDG 17) by integrating sustainable development principles into its education, research, and community outreach efforts. The university is dedicated to fostering a collaborative environment where sustainability is deeply embedded in academic programs, research, and institutional activities.

Through robust international cooperation, Azerbaijan University engages in partnerships with universities, research institutions, and organizations from around the world. These collaborations enable the university to address global challenges such as climate change, social equality, and sustainable development. One of the key initiatives in promoting international cooperation is the International Conference on Social Work & Social Research, where experts, scholars, and students from diverse countries come together to exchange knowledge and ideas on pressing social issues.

In addition to academic collaborations, the university actively participates in international exhibitions and forums, providing opportunities for students and faculty to showcase their research and innovative solutions to global challenges. These exhibitions also promote knowledge-sharing and foster partnerships with global institutions and industries that contribute to the SDGs.

The university's commitment to local and regional partnerships enhances its ability to address specific community challenges, driving solutions that have a meaningful impact on the local population. Azerbaijan University also engages with local stakeholders to collaborate on projects aimed at improving social welfare, environmental sustainability, and economic development.

Moving forward, expanding international partnerships and increasing innovation-focused research will further strengthen Azerbaijan University's role in supporting the achievement of the SDGs. By continuing to foster global cooperation and leveraging its academic and research strengths, the university aims to contribute to a more sustainable, equitable, and prosperous future for all.